MATHENY RESIGNS FROM ST. CHARLES COUNTY COUNCIL

ST. CHARLES COUNTY, MO – Nancy Matheny, County Council representative from District 3, resigned at the March 11 Council meeting. Matheny stepped down for personal reasons, citing in the resignation letter that she read to the Council that she and her husband, Rob, are moving.

In the letter, Matheny said the decision is with a heavy heart and thanked the “many dedicated and hard-working members of the St. Charles County administration and staff.” She also thanked the Council for “all your hard work, stubbornness, camaraderie and friendship over the past 6+ years.”

County Executive Steve Ehlmann thanked Matheny for her service. “You really have been a special member of the Council,” said Ehlmann. “I believe, by your example, you have really helped raise the level of debate and the tone and tenor of the debate.”

Matheny was elected to serve as the County Council representative for District 3 in 2006, and re-elected for a second four-year term in 2010. She previously served one four-year term as a St. Charles City Councilwoman in the mid-1990s. During her time with the County Council, she served as Council Vice-Chair from 2009-2011, Council Chair in 2012, and served on the Building Commission, Planning and Zoning Commission and Master Plan 2020 Committee. Matheny was also instrumental in implementing legislation for noise and peddlers and solicitors in the county.
